Finding The Perfect Engagement Ring Can Be Simple

No matter if you received, bought or inherited a piece of jewelry, the jewelry world can be downright puzzling. Where should you look when it comes to finding knowledge about jewelry? This article will give you a few pointers that will help you become a knowledgeable jewelry connoisseur.

Once you have this information you will be able to purchase Diamonds or any form of jewelry with confidence.

If you are in the market to buy some silver jewelry, don't forget to take a magnet along with you. Magnets attract non-precious metals, and you can use this fact to detect fakes. Look for the hallmark stamped on the piece of jewelry to determine what percentage sterling silver it is. If you cannot find a stamp, you might be looking at a cheap imitation.

Put your make up on before the jewelry. Jewelry will get grimy from the makeup as you apply it, attracting dirt that will make it look dull. This is especially true when earrings and necklaces are concerned.

A jewelry set makes an excellent present for that special someone. Jewelry in sets comes with a discount at many jewelry stores. If you purchase a necklace and earring set, you can gift the necklace on one occasion and the earrings on another. By doing this, you'll always have a gift ready and you know they'll like it.

Surprise the love of your life with beautiful jewelry to express your love for them. Every lady loves to get a piece of jewelry from the one they love. Surprising her with a gift is the perfect way to transform your usual date into something she will remember for years.

Gorgeous red rubies have been a favorite precious stone in jewelry throughout time for a few different reasons. Rubies come in different shades of red, though the most prized rubies are of the brightest reds. They can range from pinkish hues to the darkest, blood red colors. Rubies are also among the most durable of gemstones, being highly resistant to chemicals and impacts. Their beauty and strength make them some of the best choices for jewelry.

If you have gold necklaces and bracelets, you can actually make money from your jewelry while still keeping your pieces. Cut off some of the excess, making certain that it still fits, and you will have something to sell and still be able to use the jewelry as well. For an item that is made of actual gold, clipping off several chains can bring in over a hundred dollars simply by reducing the length of the jewelry.

Preventing tarnish will keep your jewelry look its best. One of the best ways to keep your jewelry looking beautiful is to avoid wearing it in water. Exposure can result in tarnishing, rusting or dulling of different metals. Clear nail polish, applied in a thin coat, can give jewelry some added protection.
