

Published based on Radio Flyer Tiny Trike

Radio Flyer Tiny Trike

The Quality of the Radio Flyer Classic Tiny Trike is excellent. However it is real small. I bought this for my son who was 1 year old and loves it. I say it's small because he can barely ride it. His legs are always totally bent and he cannot make a decent stride due to rear wheels always hitting the back of his shoe. It kinda looks like he's squatting to ride. I only recommend this product if your child is very small or you don't plan on using it for a long period (more than 6 months) due to size. This is a very excellent product just wish they would build one a lot bigger. I hope your child will enjoy this as much as mine has.

My son has had this Radio Flyer Classic Tiny Trike since he was one and he will be 3 in late December. I have never written an online review before, but felt compelled to for this product because of the utter joy it has brought my son. He took a while to figure out how to use it effectively (long strides DON'T work...use little ones and this solves the problems people face with feeling like it's too small) but soon he was a pro and now he hurtles around our downstairs like it's some speedbike race. He's learned how to spin out, brake and even fake a wreck!! He has more control over that little trike than I often can believe. Trust me, I have often jumped up to go and scoop up my daughter only to watch as my son, comes to a perfect stop in front of her. He LOVES this bike!! He affectionately calls it his motorbike, and delights in going really fast head-on towards a wall, and then swerving out of danger at the last minute. The control he has over it is highly impressive! And my daughter (12 months today) loves it too...she is small for her age but has no problem getting around on it. In fact, we were so impressed with the product that today, for her birthday, she was given a Radio Flyer rolling pony...same concept, but not steerable. Anyhow, if you're considering a wooden trike for your child, go out and buy this one now...you'll never regret it.

I just gave Radio Flyer Classic Tiny Trike to my nephew for his second birthday yesterday. He got dozens of gifts but this was clearly the favorite. My nephew is 75-95th percentile for all size related measurements~My nephew is 75-95th percentile for all size related measurements}. The trike might seem small but don't worry about it for any 2 year old. His four year old cousin (who is a normal sized four year old girl) was all over the thing as well. It takes about 30 minutes to put together (which I did beforehand since no 2 year old wants to open a box of trike parts). It is obviously a durable toy as well. No worries about tipping over (low center of gravity) and the kids love that bell. I couldn't recommend it more highly.

You can also find this article published on Radio Flyer Tiny Trike, and on the tag pages child, product, radio flyer, rear wheels, Tiny, utter joy.