Silver Jewellery Would Be A Great Gift For Friendship Day

Since 1935 friendship day has been celebrated around the World. This celebration was started in India, Bangladesh and Malaysia many years ago and through social media its getting popular all around the World. On the day friends wish good luck to each other and celebrate the good times and the bad times. What are you planning to give your friends? Silver jewellery is a nice gift idea. Jewelleries are famous all around the World and many people wear jewelleries.

Friendship day is slowly getting popular in UK and US even though its more popular in South Asian countries. There has been rumours about US government declaring first Sunday of August as their National freindship day. Whereas I am not sure that they have totally agreed. There are lots of people who have already started celebrating friendship day even though its not official.

So what can you give your friends on this day?

One can think of many ideas of what to give as a gift to their friends. Some give away clothes, jewellery, handbags, shoes and some take them on a nice meal. For your female friends jewellery like silver necklaces, silver brooches and silver rings would be ideal gifts. Where as you can get silver bracelets and cufflinks for men. Though it also depends on what they like and dont like. If some of your friends are not a fan of jewellery then you can always get them something else.

For example - a camera would be an ideal gift for one of your friends who has an interest in photography. Similar to someone who has an interest in writing then giving away a stylish or a parker pen would be a good gift. So you will have to use your initiative.

So why not start celebrating friendship day this August if you havent celebrated it before, just an excuse to get closer to your friends.
