Diamonds are a girl's best friend, or at least one of them. Sadly though, they are out of reach for most women. We all dream of receiving a glittering and shimmering diamond engagement ring and although some of these dreams come true, for most of us, we have to make do with fantasies. Sadly, the most precious gemstone of them all is overwhelmingly expensive. Even the simplest diamond rings cost a few months' salary and as rock size grows, so does the cost and prices can rise into the millions.

But there is another way to sparkle. High quality jewellery doesn't have to cost the earth. So long as you are selective about where you buy your jewellery from and what stones and metals you choose, you can have yourself a truly stunning piece of luxury jewellery without the luxury price tag.

Ti Sento Jewellery is a perfect example. The idea was born almost out of frustration; frustration at the fact diamonds and precious stones are just too expensive for the average person. The Ti Sento Jewellery creators used high quality sterling silver and Cubic's Zirconium in a vast array of colours to achieve their goal. Of course this isn't anything new, but the difference with Ti Sento is the way they construct their jewellery. Constructed entirely by hand, without the use of glues, Ti Sento stones offer a feeling of luxury and quality but at prices that won't make your eyes pop out of your head.

Now Ti Sento offers a broad collection of jewellery including bracelets and necklaces as well as rings and pendants. However, some of the most popular Ti Sento jewellery pieces are their charms.

In the past decade or so, charm bracelets have been given a new lease of life thanks largely to major jewellers such as Links of London and Tiffany and Co. The high street quickly adopted the trend, but because of mass production its offerings were altogether more generic, missing the point of charm bracelets. Ti Sento however was able to offer affordable prices and the ability to personalise your charm bracelets as you wanted. Now Ti Sento has a huge collection of charms from the classic sterling silver stiletto to more fun charms such as bumble bees and ladybirds.
